

Anabella – Week Three

My third week went by too fast. Interning in Capitol Hill has provided a closer look on national and global issues. Interns are given the opportunity to attend meetings regarding a topic they find interesting. For example, this week I was able to attend a briefing regarding the Israeli/Palestinian conflict and the two state solution. I find this resource great because I'm able to hear different experts analyze the situation which helps me understand the topic more. Being in DC has allowed me to experience firsthand the news and events that go on to affect the nation. I am able to witness others work on policies and new laws with the hopes of making a difference.
